Explanation

A Platting Exemption Determination, sometimes known as a lot of record verification, is a document provided by the City acknowledging whether a particular tract of land is eligible for an exemption from subdivision platting. To determine if property meets the requirements for an exemption, the City may review various records, including property descriptions from deed records and/or surveys tracing prior to April 20, 1981, survey of improvements existing prior to November 12, 2019 and proposed additions to existing residential structures; or other property documentation.

A parcel boundary used for property taxation or conveyed by deed to transfer ownership or title is not necessarily indicative of a lawfully created division of land. A determination letter from the City does not make claims as to ownership, title, or boundary locations.
